

Additional publications

In addition to the books and stories mentioned within this leaflet Founder of The Sensory Projects Joanna Grace has been published numerous times in Journals, Magazines, and in News Media both online and in print. She has also been interviewed for radio stations and for online podcasts.

These additional publications may be of interest to those looking to explore a topic still further, or looking for information about a topic not covered in the books and stories, or simply looking for slightly more information than can be gained through a leaflet but not so much as would constitute a book.

The Sensory Projects run on the principle that with the right knowledge and a little creativity inexpensive items can become effective tools for sensory inclusion.

Through the work of all the Projects founder Joanna Grace is seeking to contribute to a future where people are understood in spite of their differences.

To learn more about the projects, and to access free resources and information about bespoke sensory training visit

www.TheSensoryProjects.co.uk

Joanna's books: Sensory Stories for Children and Teens and Sensory-being for Sensory Beings are available on amazon, with more titles due for publication in 2018.

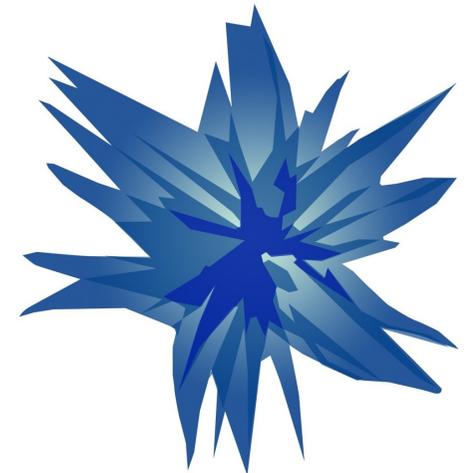

The Sensory Projects

Joanna Grace

www.TheSensoryProjects.co.uk

Books and publications from The Sensory Projects

@Jo3Grace

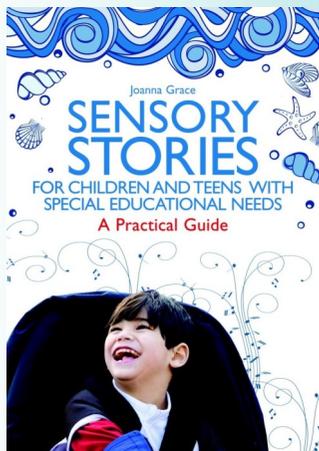

Publication dated/updated 15/10/17

Books and stories from The Sensory Projects

Sensory Stories for Children and Teens

Published by Jessica Kingsley

This book contains:

Information about the benefits of sensory stimulation and stories.

Five sensory stories complete with associated activity ideas.

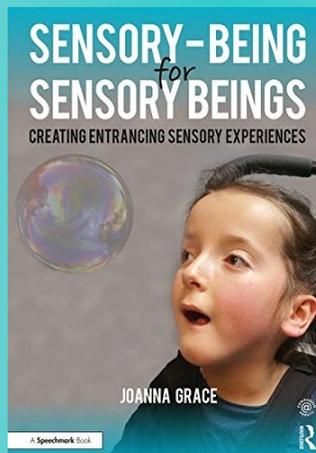

Guidance on how to share sensory stories for maximal benefit.

Ideas about recording and extending sensory story experience.

Ways to use sensory stories to support people in different areas of their lives.

Sensory-being for Sensory Beings

Published by Routledge

This book contains :

Information about sensory-being a type of mindfulness based on shared sensory experiences and how it can be used to improve the lives of Sensory Beings and of those who support them.

Information about how seven sensory systems develop and how to select sensory experiences that match with a person's stage of development.

You may be interested in the following guides:

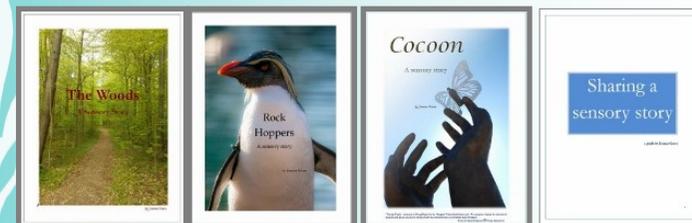

Linguistic Beings and Sensory Beings

The Sensory Projects Seven Senses

Sensory Stories from The Sensory Projects

A multitude of sensory stories are available to purchase directly from The Sensory Projects via www.TheSensoryProjects.co.uk

These stories come with: Information on how to resource and facilitate the stories, activity suggestions to further engagement with the stories, and of course the story itself.

A free guide to sharing sensory stories can be downloaded from the website.

Due for publication in 2018

A further practitioner manual is to be published by Jessica Kingsley entitled:

Sensory Stories and Conversations for people with Dementia

A set of four children's books are due for publication by Flindel / LDA resources these will be sensory stories with full colour page illustration, each story will target a particular set of sensory needs.

